

MEXICO

Just when you've had enough of the gloomy-weather blues, pack your bags and head south of the border to Mexico. Specialty cruises and properties offer the LGBT traveler exclusive access to exotic locales, warm waters and plenty of rest and relaxation to rejuvenate after a long, cold winter.

March

MEXICO

Cruise: Sweet CEO and founding partner Shannon Wentworth is recognized as one of the top leaders in LGBT travel innovation, and her travel company's lesbian-centric vacations, cruises and festivals are the hot ticket for any woman looking to escape the daily doldrums. This March, guests will board the Norwegian Star for a seven-night cruise through the Mexican Riviera. Cozumel Palace Resort is their May destination, with special appearances by Frenchie Davis and comedienne Jennie McNulty and Shann Carr.

All Inclusive: Put your wallet (and all of your mobile devices) in the safe and head to the beach at one of the Grand Palladium Resort properties located on the Mexican Riviera. For LGBT family fun (yes, we're having kids now), the resort features children's favorite Raggs with special appearances, live shows and other family-oriented activities. For an adults-only escape, the Royal Suites Yucatán offers a five-star experience, including butler service, eight à la carte restaurants, 26 bars (count 'em) and three adults-only pools. Serenity awaits.
